

Recycling tidbits

Among the facts about recycling:

- Michigan residents generate enough garbage daily to fill the Pontiac Silverdome.
- As much as 70 percent of the waste currently thrown away is made of recyclable material.
- Every Sunday, more than 500,000 trees are used to produce 88 percent of the newspapers, which are never recycled.
- The Environmental Protection Agency has shown it only takes a little more than two minutes a day for a household to recycle glass, plastic, aluminum and steel.

St. Aloysius students learn 'not all garbage is garbage'

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus St. Aloysius students learned to separate reusable goods from garbage last week when a representative from the Conference of Western Wayne demonstrated what items are considered recyclable.

Marlene Davis, CWW program speaker, brought newspapers, bottles and a large bin to describe to the students the importance of preserving the environment.

"I'm going to show you not all of my garbage is considered garbage, but it's recyclable," Davis said. "An average person in Michigan throws out 3.2 pounds of garbage a day. We're running out of landfill space."

"The most we throw out is paper products," Davis said. "Paper products make up 37 percent of the waste stream. You can't recycle glossy magazines. About 17 percent of the garbage we throw out is yard waste. Another 10 percent is plastics."

In order to reduce the amount of garbage being thrown out on a daily basis, Davis recommended the following:

- Buy durable products, not disposable ones, such as refillable razors and cloth diapers.
- Refuse excess packaging. Use one shopping bag to hold all the purchases. Avoid buying fruits and vegetables placed in foam trays, then wrapped in plastic.
- Detach the grass catcher from the lawn mower. Grass clippings will provide the lawn with a natural fertilizer and do not cause thatch.
- Look for alternatives to hazardous household cleaners, such as a handful of baking soda and a half cup of vinegar to keep drains clean.

"About 8 percent thrown out is food waste, 6 percent is metal and 5 percent is glass," Davis said. "Seventeen percent is comprised of other things which includes leather."

Other helpful tips Davis offered to the students on recycling included:

- Use lunch boxes instead of paper bags. Use refillable plastic containers to hold food.
- Wipe up spills with sponges or rags rather than paper towels.
- Donate used furniture, clothing, toys, eyeglasses, magazines and books to a charity.

City officials were also on hand to offer a few pointers including Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally and Community Development Coordinator Jeffrey Martell.

McAnally told the students they need to start preserving the environment now in order to have clean air in the near future.

"Everything depends on you people," McAnally said. "It's going to take everyone's effort to continue having clean air, water and land. You can begin recycling at home. I hope you take it as a challenge."

The Romulus recycling center is located at City Hall and is open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. April 13 and May 11. Summer hours are now being deliberated.

Resident receives award

A Romulus resident recently received the National Service Award from the Michigan Floral Association.

James Gaunt of Southview Inc. in Romulus, a Detroit area floral product wholesale chain, received the title during the MFA Spring Convention and Trade Show at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

Gaunt has been active in the family's floriculture business since 1950, when he became a partner. He is a past president of MFA, Wholesale Florists and Florist Suppliers of America and Professional Allied Florists of Detroit, according to Larry Andrick, MFA representative.

"The National Service Award is the highest honor MFA presents to a member of the floral industry," Andrick said. "Among those who have received the National Service Award are: Jim Krone, John Hannah, Harry Miller, Earl Hiebert, Richard Flipse, Bill Maas, John Walker and Herman Meinders."

Individuals at the convention were also competing for the Designer of the Year award. Professional designers created an entry for each of the three categories: "Carnival Time in Rio," "I'm getting Married on the Midway" and "Save the Earth." All entries were scored, and the five contestants with the highest cumulative points competed for the MFA Designer of the Year title.

About 2,600 members of the floral industry attended the MFA Spring Convention and Trade Show "A Floral Carnival." More than 160 exhibits were on display, including floral design shows and industry speakers.

"This year's convention, the 71st annual for the association, celebrated the end of the war in the Persian Gulf with a patriotic floral tribute to the U.S. troops who served during the war," Andrick said. "Weekend hotel guests and convention attendees were greeted with stars and stripes as they entered the lobby of the Hyatt."

The MFA headquarters is in Lansing. MFA is a full-service trade organization representing florists, growers and wholesalers of floral products.

Plan has good and bad side

There's good news and bad news about Gov. John Engler's budget proposal, but the good should outweigh the bad in time.

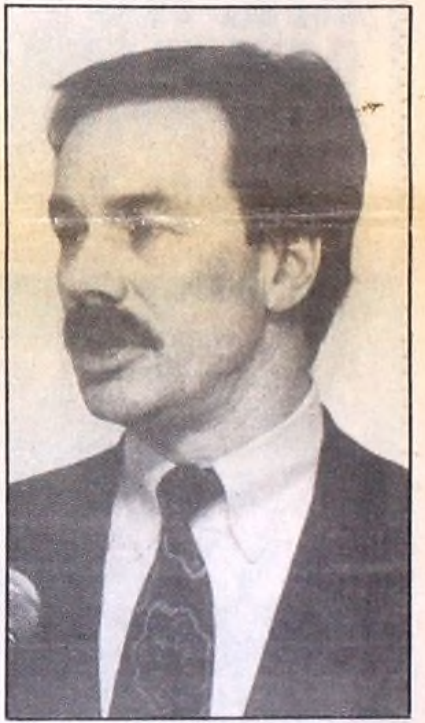

State Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township) presented Romulus Chamber of Commerce members and guests March 19 with a layout of how the proposed state budget will impact Michigan residents in the near future.

"The good news is the government is doing what it needs to do," Kosteva said. "It needs to have evaluation and feedback. We need to bring some rationale."

The bad news which residents have been hearing about for weeks is the massive cutbacks in funding for various community programs. Kosteva said it's going to take some time before the adjustments are made with the new administration.

"We're going through a period of disruption and change in the state government," Kosteva said. "But, we're going to have a good state government when all the hoopla and hollering is done."

Many Michigan residents, according to Kosteva, have been wondering how the state government became so topsy-turvy within the last couple of years from when former governor James Blanchard was in office and now.

"There have been changes within the state government over the past few years which includes major shifts in the

A Romulus resident will just have to wait for Shirley Poling, interim Wayne County commissioner, to pull some strings with county officials before he can get some action on his broken bridge.

For more than 10 years, Joseph Gyorkos has been fighting county officials to take responsibility for a damaged bridge he claims is the result of county construction of the Interstate-94 interchange near Huron River Drive.

Gyorkos owns a house at 38650 Huron River Drive where a bridge was constructed over a drain which runs west and south of the interchange. He says he hasn't been able to use the bridge since the interchange construction because of water damage.

State Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township) has been working with Poling to solve the matter, however, Kosteva said it's up to Poling to make

Amann scores election victory over appointee

He won the race, now he's going to Disney World.

Bryan Amann scored his first election victory in a not-so-close race Tuesday for the Democratic nomination for the 11th District seat on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Amann beat out commission appointee Shirley Poling, 2,872 to 1,966.

On the Republican side, former Canton Township supervisor Jim Poole beat out Rockwood resident John F. McCarthy.

The two victorious candidates will go on to the general election May 7. A Republican candidate has not been elected to the 11th District post in recent history.

Amann said the campaign was exciting, but he's taking a short break and heading to Florida with his family before they think about the general election.

"I just feel tremendous," he said Tuesday night from his celebration at the Airport Hilton. "I think the voters looked at my qualifications."

Amann won clear-cut victories in Poling's hometown of Canton Township, and his own hometown of Wayne.

"It's especially great winning my hometown," he said.

Wayne City Councilman trailed Poling and Amann in third place with 679 votes.

Amann, assistant county executive to Edward McNamara, was relaxed on election day. He did no campaigning.

"The people who were going to vote in this election knew who they were going to vote for before today," he said.

Amann headed to the polls early Tuesday with his two young children. His 5-year-old daughter had spent the past two weeks saying she would vote for challenger Bob Beeny whenever her father did something she didn't like. She also announced her voting intentions at the polls with her father.

Beeny and Amann are close friends and the campaign between the two was a clean one.

The low voter turnout was expected, and low turnout for the general election would also be less than surprising, Amann said.

Amann has become best known in recent months for his work with the Federal Aviation Administration. He worked with the FAA to establish new flight patterns in an effort to alleviate noise problems over Westland and Dearborn.

Amann has also worked closely with the county criminal justice system, and was instrumental in establishing the Kidspace day-care center at the county building.

He was chairman of the 15th District Democratic Club for four years and served as chief deputy county clerk. Prior to joining county government, Amann worked on the Washington staff of Congressman William D. Ford, and served as staff assistant to Michigan UAW-CAP Director Sam Fishman.

He is a member of the Michigan Bar Association and a past member of the Detroit Bar Association and Michigan Trial Lawyers Association.

McNamara appointed Amann deputy executive 1988.

The 11th District post was previously occupied by Milton Mack Jr., also of Wayne. He left the commission to accept an appointment on the state court.

state budget," Kosteva said. "Changes in the state budget include mental health and corrections. We made a commitment to start a program for prisoners. The cost to keep a person behind bars for one year is $24,000."

Kosteva explained the long process of how the budget is established. As of Oct. 1, the state fiscal year begins, according to Kosteva. On July 1, the state adopts the budget. On March 1, the governor adopts the budget.

"This means the 1990-91 budget begins Oct. 1 where the revenue was established in November 1989," Kosteva said. "Our revenue estimates have gone down since that time. When a recession hits, we get layoffs. Our general assistance caseloads go down. How we got where we are today in the state is due to a number of factors,

Students treated to breakfast

About 90 Cory Elementary School students in grades three through six were recently treated to a special breakfast in honor of their academic achievements.

The students, along with Cory Principal Phyllis Adkins, staff and parents, were provided a banquet breakfast at the Romulus Marriott. Adkins said Stu Terrell, Romulus Marriott general manager, really went out of his way for the students.

"We had no idea that the Marriott would provide such a formal affair," Adkins said. "The Marriott has proven to be a business partner in the true sense of the word."

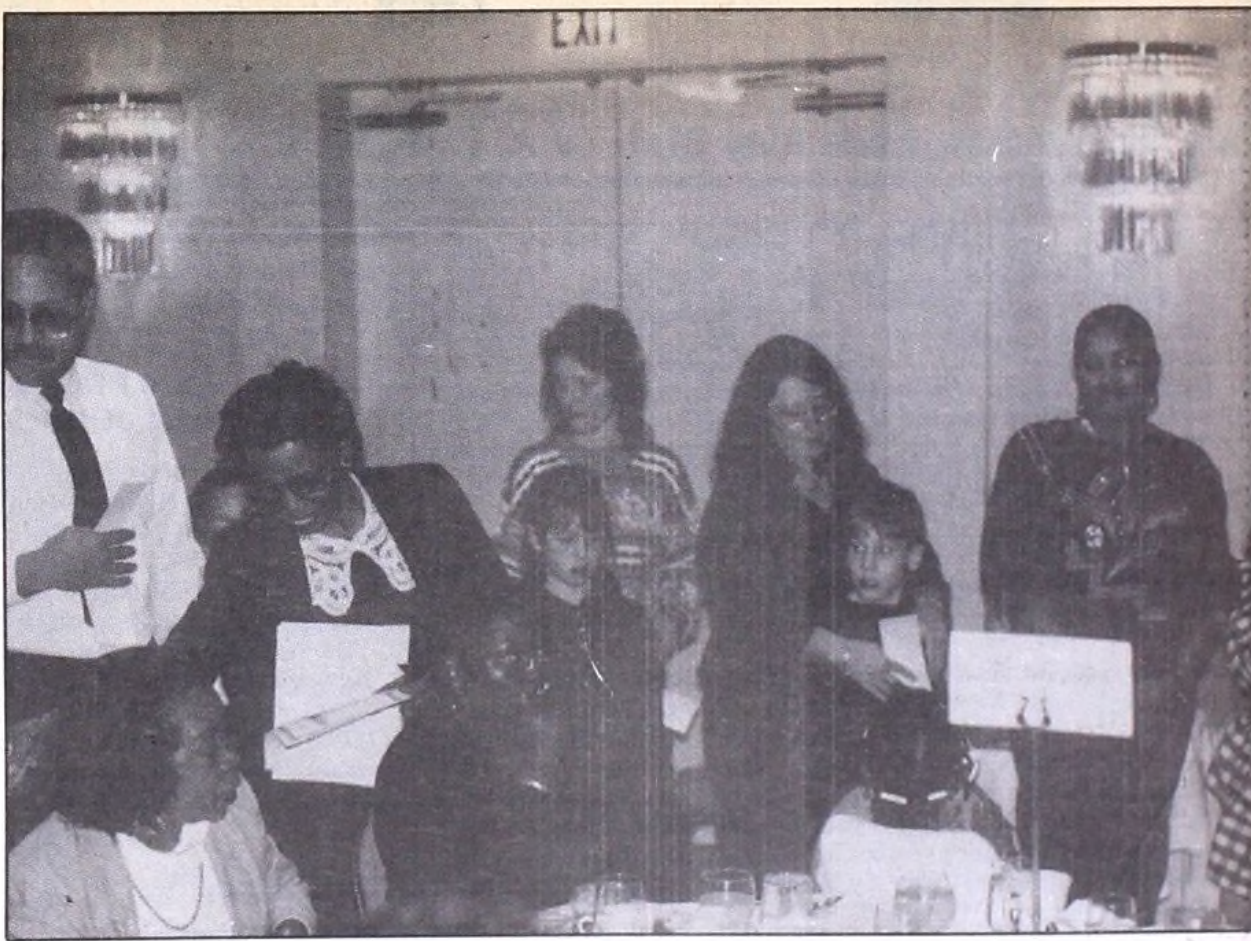

The Marriott is one of 60 Romulus businesses involved with the Partnerships for Education program. Through the program, businesses assist district schools to help further education for all students beyond the classroom.

During the ceremony, honor roll students were presented with certificates by their teachers and parents were presented with Cory Honor Roll bumper stickers, courtesy of the Cory Parent and Teacher Organization.

Besides Cory staff, students and parents, other representatives from the district included: Tom Dolan, Romulus High School principal, Attendance Counselor Maxine Reed, Ed Clark, coordinator of the Business Partnership program and the Rev. R. Williams, pastor of Bethany Apostolic Faith Church, who also gave the invocation.

Cory Elementary School officials recently implemented the Academic Improvement Roll, which is the brainchild of the fourth-grade classes at Cory, according to Adkins.

Upon arrival, Romulus resident Denise Willis was about to have her baby, according to Fire Chief William Greenslait.

Both Willis and her son were transported to Annapolis Hospital. Greenslait commended the efforts of Sgt. Darrell DuFore and Derrick DuFore who Romulus councilmembers adopted an ordinance March 11 to enforce the size, weight and load restrictions on city streets and roadways.

Several stipulations were listed within the ordinance, including:

- Inspection of vehicles – A uniformed police officer may, on reasonable grounds shown, stop a motor vehicle for inspection. If any defects in equipment are found, the officer can order the individual to have the defect repaired immediately.
- In case of an accident, the officer can make an inspection of the vehicle involved in the accident.
- Driving vehicle of size or weight exceeding state limitations, misdemeanor or civil infraction; power of local authorities – It is a misdemeanor for a person to drive or move or for the owner to cause or permit to be driven or moved on a highway a vehicle of a size or weight exceeding limitations.
- Authority to require weighing – A police officer or authorized agent of Romulus, having reason to believe the weight of a vehicle and load is unlawful, can require the driver to stop and submit to a weighing of the vehicle by either portable or stationary scales.
- It also may require the vehicle be driven to the nearest weighing station of the state transportation department for the purpose of allowing an officer or agent of the state transportation department or county road commission to determine whether the conveyance is loaded.
- All motor trucks or tractors, besides the exceptions in the chapter, weighing more than 5,000 pounds registered weight and all towing or platform bed wrecker road service vehicles in operation on the highways of the state, will have the name, city and state or the registered logo or emblem of the registered owner of the vehicle.

Soviet team is welcomed in Westland

Glasnost is coming to Westland.

A group of 30 athletes, sports officials, government and business leaders from the Soviet Union will converge on western Wayne County tonight in an unprecedented exchange.

The entourage is expected to arrive late tonight and will stay in Westland until April 4.

This is the second leg of an exchange which began last year when a local youth hockey team and various dignitaries including City Councilman Kenneth Mehl and State Rep. Justine Barns traveled to Leningrad.

While there the team participated in a hockey tournament, and visited local points of interest.

The Soviets trip to Westland promises to be just as exciting with a hockey tournament slated, as well as trips to Lansing, Greenfield Village and much more.

"This is an effort to educate the Soviets about our way of life, just as we learned about their lifestyle," said Mehl, a key planner in the Soviets trip here.

The Soviets stay is being celebrated as part of the 25th anniversary of Westland. It is being organized by the 25th Anniversary Committee, chaired by Council President Thomas Brown and Mehl. Their stay here is being funded solely through private donations from local business people and residents, Mehl said.

"We are trying to raise more than $10,000 to fund the trip," he added.

City dollars and anniversary committee money will not go toward their stay, he said.

The LMK hockey team and the rest of the Soviet entourage will fly into New York today, and will be greeted there by Mehl.

When they arrive in Westland, the visitors will be paired off with host families.

"When we went there (Soviet Union), we stayed in a hotel and did not really get an idea for home life there," Mehl said. "While here, they will be living in private homes with area residents."

They will begin their string of hockey games Saturday at the Westland Sports Arena.

Between hockey games with local teams, the group will visit various points of interest locally.

"I think they will be really shocked by the houses and the shopping malls," Mehl said. "That will really impress them."

A banquet is being planned for the group March 24 with the intent of collecting funds for the trip. For ticket information, phone city hall.

Planning for the Soviet visit here has been complicated, according to Mehl. Most arrangements have been made by telephone and facsimile machine.

A list of those participating in the tour was not available as the names and spellings on the list continued to change. The language barrier, Mehl said, made planning difficult.

Family prepares to welcome son

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

After spending months on the front line in the Persian Gulf, Wayne resident Steven Long is expected to come home within the next two weeks and open Christmas gifts.

Long, 23, is a machine gunner with the U.S. Army. His parents, John and Linda, have been anxiously waiting to hear from their son ever since Desert Storm began and mail became scarce.

Last week, the Longs finally received a phone call from their son, who recently moved out of Iraq and into Saudi Arabia with his squadron, according to his father.

"He thought he was coming home March 20, but now they changed the plans for him to come home within the next two weeks," Long said. "He will be flying in to Fort Benning in Georgia before he arrives here in Wayne. We're going to fly down to Georgia to meet him."

Through his letters, Long told his family about what it's like to live in the desert. Long described how he had to shake his clothes each morning before putting them on because scorpions crawl about at night.

"I drink about six gallons of water a day, bottled water," Long said in a letter. "It's a nice country, except for the heat."

In January, Long's mother stopped listening to the news on television and decided, along with her husband, to create a support group in Wayne for residents who needed a helping hand to get through the war.

The group has grown to about 100 people, with residents from Wayne and other communities in western Wayne County. The Wayne Support Group meets every Monday at City Hall.

"We're still getting members now," Long's father said. "We continue to read letters we receive from relatives in the Gulf. We're going to continue supporting the troops until all of our U.S. soldiers are home."

Wayne Support Group members would like to thank the following people and businesses for their support during the war: Northside Hardware, Parkway Office Supply, Wayne Kroger, Keller and Stein Flower Shop, Meyers, Cablevision of Wayne, Wayne Eagle, Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton, Bob and Kathy Beeny, City of Wayne, Palace Supermarket, Metro Wayne Democratic Club, Monroe Elementary School PTA, Mail Boxes Etc., Bio-Spine Office, Taco Bell of Livonia, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Joe and Pam Behulte, Gary Adamson, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Currie, The Wayne Public Safety Department, Art and Judy Morton and Joan Adis Bookstore.

On April 7, the Allied Veterans of Wayne will be conducting a support march and rally for the servicemen and women who participated in the Persian Gulf war.

The march will begin at 1 p.m., according to Anna M. Hensley Jr., vice commander of the Western Wayne County Allied Veterans Council.

"It will start at Wayne Memorial High School, and then will go down Glenwood to Wayne Road and then to the Veterans Memorial," Hensley said.

Hensley is also organizing the annual Wayne-Westland Memorial Day Parade May 27. Anyone interested in lending a helping hand can call Hensley at 728-8412.

Richard Kruse (right) accepts the Romulus Person of the Year Plaque from Mark Paladino, (center) chamber second vice president, and Dennis Worsley, chamber president.

Person of year is honored

Romulus Chamber of Commerce Person of the Year Richard Kruse was recently presented with a plaque honoring him for his 25 years of dedication to Romulus schools and students.

Kruse was selected by members of the chamber as their 11th honoree.

School bands directed by Kruse have received national recognition six times since 1980, and have won state-level competitions every year but one (1979).

Kruse takes time out of his personal schedule to visit local subdivisions, and talk with youngsters who think they might be interested in band. He encourages them to start in the music program right away, according to chamber representatives.

He also gives up his weekends to travel with the band to various performances in the community and to competitions.

Last year, Kruse paid for a billboard along Interstate-94 congratulating his student performers for their victories in competitions.

The band has received invitations from all across the country to perform in concerts and parades.

About 150 Romulus business people, residents, school officials, teachers and city officials attended the official Person of the Year recognition dinner March 1 at the new Romulus Marriott.

Also attending were the first Person of the Year honoree, Bill Simonds; the fourth Person of the Year honoree, Jason Lovette; and the 1989 recipient, Mary Ann Banks.

Nominations for the honor are accepted from residents, as well as members of the chamber, according to Mark Lewkowicz, chairman of the Person of the Year Committee. Forms are available beginning Oct. 1, and must be submitted by Dec. 1.

Committee members research each nominee, narrowing the field down to three candidates, Lewkowicz said. The winner is then selected by the chamber board of directors.

The third goes to youth groups with significant accomplishments.

The medals will personally be presented by Ford on May 5. Nomination forms are available at Ford's district offices in Wayne, 722-1411, and Ypsilanti, 482-6636, and from committee members.

New Five-Year Birth Control is Easy, Safe

By Charles T. Cash, M.D.

A highly effective, convenient, long-term, and easily reversible method of birth control has been introduced in the United States.

Sound too good to be true? Read on.

What is it, and how does it work?

This new contraceptive, called Norplant, consists of six tiny tubes, each about the size of a matchstick. The tubes are implanted in the inside of the upper arm, in a fan-like arrangement. The outline of the tubes underneath the skin can be felt, and sometimes seen, in thin women.

Within 24 hours after insertion, the tubes slowly release uniform amounts of progesterin — a hormone which inhibits ovulation — into the body. In addition to preventing ovulation, progesterin causes thicker cervical mucus, which is difficult for sperm to penetrate.

The implantation procedure is performed under a local anesthetic, and takes approximately 10 to 15 minutes. Norplant provides effective contraception for up to five years.

Easily reversible

The Norplant system can be removed at any time after initial implantation. Like the insertion procedure, the removal takes approximately 10 to 15 minutes, and is performed under local anesthetic.

Most women who elect to discontinue their use of Norplant do so to become pregnant. Fertility returns rapidly after removal. In one study, eight of nine patients were pregnant within five months.

Side effects are minimal

The most common side effect reported by Norplant users is irregular vaginal bleeding and spotting, although some women have reported dizziness, headaches, nervousness, and nausea. All side effects generally improve within the first year.

Serious side effects associated with birth control pills, such as blood clotting, or increased risk of heart attack in women who smoke, are not as significant with Norplant, since Norplant does not contain estrogen.

Success rate and benefits

Norplant is more successful in preventing pregnancy than other reversible forms of contraception, including the pill. It is ideal for anyone who desires long-term protection against pregnancy, wants to avoid the permanence of sterilization, is not a good candidate for the pill or IUD, should avoid estrogen, has had post-elective or repeat abortions, or who recently has had a baby.

Some Michigan hospitals, including Oakwood, have begun prescribing and administering Norplant. To see if you're a good candidate, make an appointment with your gynecologist.

Opinion

Welcome to America

A wonderful thing is happening in Westland. An attempt is being made to achieve mutual understanding between residents of two countries which spend most of the time on opposite sides of a brick wall. A delegation of young people, business leaders and government officials from the Soviet Union will arrive in western Wayne County tonight. They will bring with them notions of what America is, and what Americans are. They might think of us as money-hungry or spoiled. They might expect to see crime and poverty every way they turn. These notions are to be expected. We, too, have ideas of what the Soviet Union is and what Soviets are all about. Hopefully this short visit by friends from across the sea will make the distance between our countries seem not so great. Perhaps the next few days will help to break down that brick wall. We welcome this delegation from the Soviet Union with open arms. We look forward to learning from them, and hope they take back with them some greater knowledge of who we are. A hockey tournament may be the focus of their trip, but that doesn't have to be the only thing accomplished while there here. The battle on the ice does not need to become a fight for domination, but rather a fight for knowledge and mutual understanding. Let us all remember what is truly important about the Soviets' stay in our country - we are all people faced with an opportunity to create a better world order. Good luck to the teams, but more importantly, God bless us all.

Attack on mayor was deserved

The decision is set in stone for now. The Wayne-Westland school millage failed once again to gain enough support. A victory, however, was perhaps won Monday night as supporters of the schools and the students rallied to "beat down" Westland Mayor Robert Thomas. They let their anger known. Thomas spoke out against the millage which would have restored much-needed programs to the district and save students from further cutbacks next year. It is a free country, and Mayor Thomas is allowed to express his opinion. Angry school supporters expressed their opinion as well. They spoke with anger, however, because their children had been injured. They deserved their anger. It is good to see these supporters state their case, standing strong together. Thomas failed to put the city first. He denounced a tax increase because that is the safe thing for a politician to do. Perhaps Thomas cannot be solely blamed for the defeat of the millage, but he can be accused of letting the citizens of Westland down. The attack was deserved.

Turnout good, outcome sad

Although the (Wayne-Westland schools) millage has been defeated again, I think we can feel good about the fact that there were over 7,000 yes-voters this time. The turnout for this special election was the best yet. It is still unfortunate that a mere 500 people can determine the future of a school district. As always, the children are the losers here. Further program cuts will be made and the quality of education will not be the same. Why can't people see what the impact of their no-vote is doing to this once fine school district? It is too bad there are so many senior citizens and others against this much-needed proposal because they are only hurting themselves and the future of the cities of Wayne and Westland. What else can be expected when Westland's own mayor is against the millage and there is a citizens group working diligently to make sure people only get a negative view of the school district. To all the yes-voters, don't give up. These defeats only make our group stronger and more determined to work harder to get this proposal passed.

Millage defeat creates failure

Now that the voters in the Wayne-Westland Community School District have expressed their wishes in our recent millage election, I feel that it is time to begin a reordering of our educational priorities. It appears that this community no longer desires to provide the means for our students to compete in a global economy. So be it. However, with the Japanese and other nations scrambling to buy up as much of America as they are able, there will be a tremendous need to provide chauffeurs, maids, gardeners, pool boys, bathroom attendants and so forth. Even with the limited resources available to our school district in coming years, we should be able to fill this need. It will be comforting to know that Wayne-Westland will be a leader in providing graduates capable of handling a $5 an hour job.

Bob McClellan
soon-to-be-ex-Wayne resident

Airplanes, radios sound the same

I read with disbelief that our councilmembers (Wayne) are proposing an ordinance to limit noise in the city, citing in particular amplified sound systems. Certainly we all agree a quiet community is desirable and loud amplified sounds should be restricted. Yet Wayne is continuously saturated with loud aircraft noise overhead and our elected officials did not feel it necessary to represent our city during the hearings against aircraft noise, nor did they choose to unite with the surrounding communities to let Wayne County know the noise level was unacceptable. I find that interesting.
S. Putnam
Wayne

We value education

As a citizen of Westland, I was very upset the school millage didn't pass. I was reading an article in People Magazine, and in it there is an article by David McCullough which states: "Our public schools and great universities have long been considered the best in the world. And if our past can teach us anything it is that education - education second to none and open to all - has been our salvation, our making. That, too, has been part of the work of America, the good work of America. We are what we do. The test will be in what we value, what we want." What I, and thousands, of Westland residents value is a good education for our children. Our children are the future, what we want is for everyone to know that the only ones that are going to suffer now are our children. Our children not only need, they deserve a good education. It's a shame we won't give it to them.

All-area stars coming next

As legendary Yankee great Yogi Berra liked to say, "It ain't over until it's over." And, though the high school fans have shouted their last hurrahs for their winter sports teams, the action isn't quite over. The Associated Newspapers Sports Staff has one big task on its hands. It's busy putting the finishing touches on their traditional All-area teams.

In the few weeks before the spring sports openers, the ANP staff will display the top prep stars on these pages. Look for the top basketball and volleyball players, along with the wrestlers and swimmers, to be featured in upcoming editions.

Also, the ANP staff will select their Coaches of the Year for each sport.

So don't miss the final action to what has been an exciting winter sports year.

If you have any candidates for our teams, don't hesitate to call Tom Mooradian or Ted Coutilish, ANP staff writers, at 729-4000, before the lineups are finalized.

Baseball registration open

The Wayne Baseball Association would like to welcome spring by announcing registration for the 1991 baseball season.

Registration has already begun so the time to act is now.

For further information about registration information, contact Jeff Aver at 292-4175.

Auto fans remember pioneer racer

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Auto-racing pioneer George Steffke of Wayne built a national reputation on the race track, but made his beginnings in the Detroit area. Steffke died March 7 of an apparent heart attack at age 67.

"He was one of the greatest drivers - fearless I would say - that I ever had the pleasure to meet and photograph," legendary photographer George Varga said.

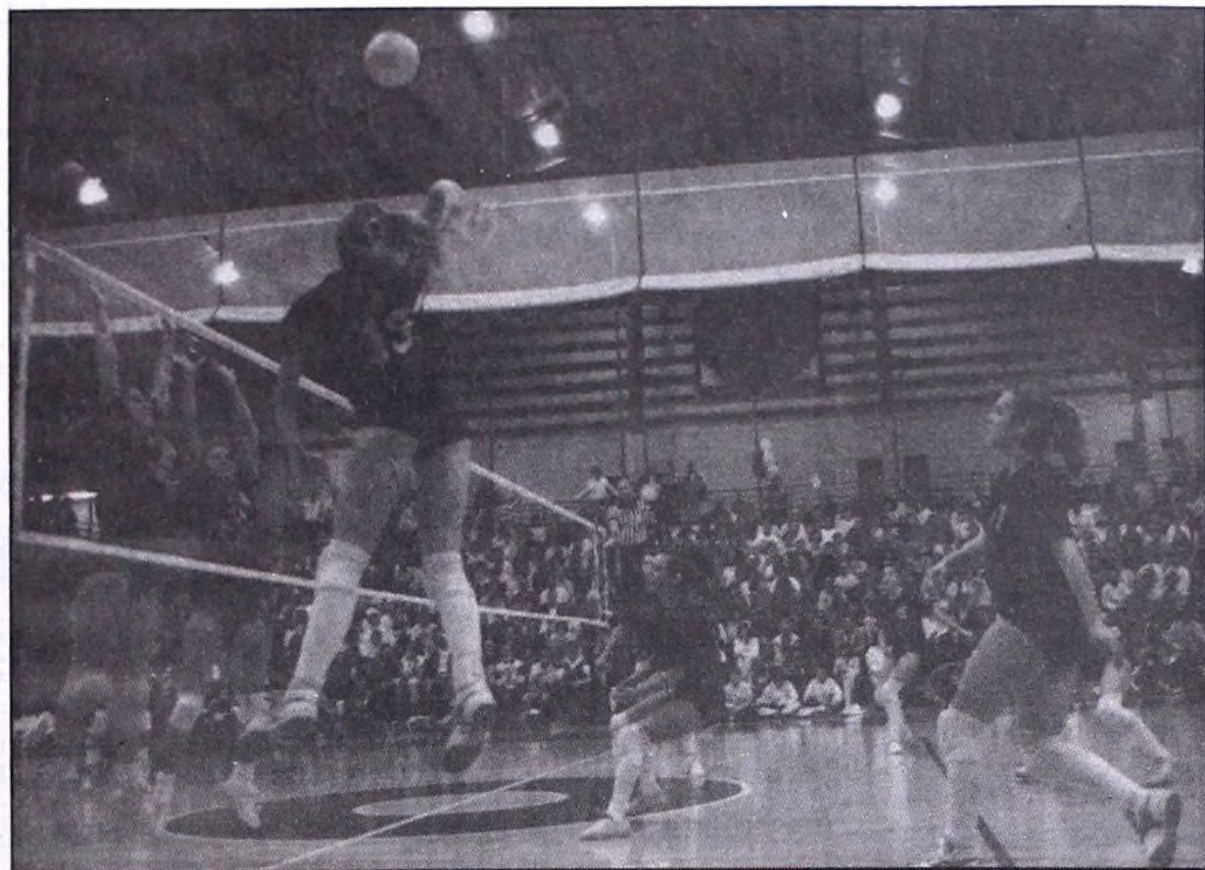

Steffke, known to the auto-racing world and the NASCAR circuit by his professional name, George 'Coop' Cooper, was said to be a master at extracting the best from his machine.

"'Coop' could get more out of an engine than anyone I've known to get behind a wheel," said Varga, who covered the Indy 500 race as a free-lance photographer for more than three decades. Varga is also credited with helping to publicize midwest car racing in Detroit.

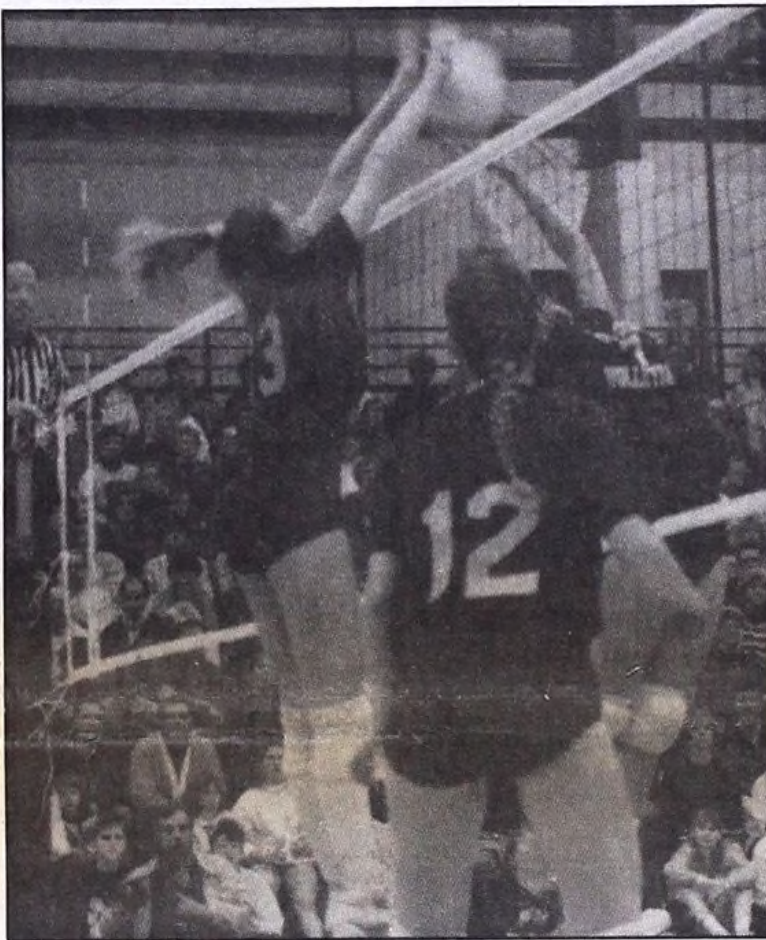

"I know the auto-racing world is saddened by Coop's death. There is a void with Coop's departure that can never be filled."

Cooper was the first track champion at Flat Rock Speedway in 1953, and he went on to collect five more titles at the 1/4 mile paved oval track south of Detroit.

According to Ron Drager of Flat Rock Speedway, Cooper was a constant winner at Flat Rock, Mt. Clemens

Airborne Brandi Caincross (13) comes up with one of her "kills" against previously undefeated and top-state ranked Holland Ottawa. The Wayne star led the Zebras to an impressive 15-12 first-game victory in the Class A state quarterfinals conducted at Nazareth College in Kalamazoo. Wayne, however, saw its season come to an end as the Panthers staged a comeback in the finals two games to win the series and a berth in the semifinals. Final stand Wayne spikers are ousted by Holland

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial spikers proved they are among the best in the state Friday night.

Coach Ann Kolnytis and the Zebras made the previously undefeated and top-state ranked team, Holland Ottawa, sweat it out at the state quarterfinals before falling 2-1 to their rivals.

The loss brought the curtains down on an incredible 41-5 won-lost season for Wayne.

Holland, favored to win the coveted Class A state title, apparently was softened up by the hard-striking Zebras. The title was denied to Holland, which subsequently lost in the semifinals.

Livonia Churchill went on to capture the prized state championship.

"I don't think that there is anyone around who would not agree that we have one of the finest teams in the state," said Kolnytis, after the last hurrahs. "Our kids played well. They have nothing to be ashamed of."

Wayne reached the state quarterfinals, staged at Nazareth College in Kalamazoo Friday night, with impressive victories in the district and regional competitions.

In the districts, Wayne defeated rival Westland John Glenn, Belleville and Romulus, in the regionals, staged at Wayne High, the hosts posted victories over Dearborn and Lincoln Park.

Wayne came up against Holland at the quarterfinals and faced a team with an unblemished 65-0 record. The Panthers apparently didn't expect a battle from their opponents.

Our kids played well. They have nothing to be ashamed of.

— Ann Kolnytis
coach

Wayne, with a sterling performance from Brandi Caincross, a legitimate all-state candidate, shocked the Panthers with a 15-12 victory. The top-ranked state team needed everything they possessed to come back and take a 15-10 decision in the second game.

That set up a third and final game. Despite an outstanding Wayne defense, Holland managed to surface with a crucial 15-11 game to win the series and eliminate the Zebras.

Senior Gerri Ruffing, junior Katie Corwin and junior Vicki Rohraff played outstanding on offense for the Zebras, while they also received a sparkling effort from junior setter Laura Fisher, who raked in the assists and accounted for a few kills. Standing out on defense for the Zebras were Ruffings, senior Denise Walsh and junior Mary Kay Mazurek.

If there was any criticism of her team, Kolnytis said "we didn't utilize our full power."

Vicki England, assistant Wayne coach, agreed: "Holland used a lot of quick sets. We're not used to them and I think they threw us off a little."

Kolnytis said the loss did not tarnish a fine season.

"The community certainly has to be proud of the team," she said. "Being one of the top eight teams in the state is not too bad, wouldn't you say?"

Over 30 league Hockey playoff action heats up

With the season nearing its climax, the playoff action heated up in the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League.

P.C. Outlet erupted for six goals to humble D.J. Lounge 6-2 in their final encounter of the 1991 campaign. P.C. dominated the contest as it jumped out to a six-goal lead after the first two periods.

Bill Bower scored two goals and accounted for three assists for the winners, while teammate Pat Zarem tallied twice, with Sam Staverski and Bob Domanski each adding single goals.

Stavreski also added two assists to his total. D.J.'s averted the shutout thanks to goals from Clyde Ayers and Walt Fishoff. Dave Fiero, Gary Tilson, Rob Mackenzie and Jeff Carter carded assists.

The victory opened the door to the finals for the Outlet skaters, while D. J. can hang it up for the season.

Over in the Bonkowski Division, the semifinals matched Sportswear Design with Eisley Electric. The teams managed to match goals in the first period, with Larry Pennington scoring the first of his goals for Sportswear, and Sam Foddrill tallying for Eisley. Ron Jacobs' goal put Sportswear back in the lead. However, Rick Hunt and Ray Matthews replied for Eisley, putting them ahead 3-2 after two periods.

Pennington's second goal of the evening tied the game in the third period and forced the issue to a sudden-death overtime. The five-minute extra period was nearly over when Pennington again found the range and turned on the light for the victory.

Sportswear Design earned the right to meet P.C. Outlet in the final game next week.

In other action, Rogalas Bar and Grill clashed with Howell Tool & Gage in the Berrington Division semifinal showdown.

Rogalas erupted to an early 3-0 lead on goals from Norm Beasley, Jerry Robertson and Dave Frankling, and it looked as if they were going to run away with the game. But goals by John Colligan and Mark Santon brought Howell back into focus.

Frankling scored to give Rogalas a two-goal lead. Santoni collected his second for the evening for Howell's, and the outcome of the game remained in doubt. Jerry Peterson came up with a goal to tie the game and sent it into overtime.

Less than a minute into the overtime, Santoni scored the game winner.

It will be Howell against Harlow Tire for the playoff championship in the Berrington Division.

Inkster leagues Baseball registration dates set

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It's time to "play ball" in Inkster.

The Inkster Parks and Recreation Department is seeking prospective ball players and teams for its various summer leagues.

Instructional league baseball registration is being accepted for the pee wee league, aged 6 through 8, and the midget league, 9-12, at the Inkster Recreation Complex on Middle Belt Road, quarter-mile north of Michigan Avenue.

There is a $6 per player registration fee to be paid at the time of registration. Registration forms may be picked up at local schools or the recreation offices.

Recreation officials also are seeking players for the adult men's Class C and adult co-ed leagues. There will be a meeting to discuss the league at 7 p.m. March 27 at the recreation center. The league will begin action May 6.

There is a $385 team-registration fee and the deadline to submit that fee is April 26.

Managers and coaches of Adult Men's Class C softball should take note there will be an organizational meeting for the league at 7 p.m. April 10 at the recreation center. The league begins play May 18, and teams that are accepted in the league must pay a $325 entry fee before May 10.

An organizational meeting also will be conducted at 6 p.m. April 9 for the adult co-ed softball league. The league will begin play May 1. There is a $150 entry fee.

For more information about the summer baseball and softball programs, contact Supervisor Ruth Williams at 728-7530. Williams will be available from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

In his prime, George "Coop" Steffke (above) was one of the top auto-car racers in the country. Coop set records at all of the major tracks and held titles at Flat Rock and the Fairgrounds before he took to the sidelines to become a test driver. The 67-year-old Wayne resident died last week, a victim of an apparent heart attack. ANP special photo

Race Track, Motor City Speedway and the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

Historians say Cooper launched his racing career first in motorcycle races, then moved on to roadsters, midgets, sprints and eventually stock cars. Cooper competed in events on the Beach Course in Daytona and passed his Indy 500 Rookie Test back in 1953.

Cooper set the MARC (ARCA) stock car qualifying record at the mile dirt Michigan State Fairgrounds and still held it when the track ceased to operate in the mid-1960s.

He was instrumental in high-performance part testing and manufacturing by Dearborn Steel Tubin for NASCAR Ford Factory Teams in the 1960s and anchored the Mercury Comet Endurance Runs at Daytona International Speedway. Cooper was still employed by DST and was in Denver on business at the time of his death.

A Wayne resident most of his life, Cooper is survived by his wife, Shirley; sons, Joseph Russell, William R., James C. and Ted; daughter, Lynn J. Rojewski; five grandchildren; one sister and one brother.

Pontiac goes 'out on a limb' with convertible Trans Am

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Pontiac is making some big changes for 1992. Two of the more popular sporty cars in the division are being totally redesigned - the Bonneville SSEi sedan and the Trans Am and Firebird.

"For the first time ever, car buyers will be able to purchase the Firebird as a convertible," said Rick Asher, a media relations representative for the Pontiac division.

The changes are all part of an enhancement of fun-to-drive Pontiacs in the line-up for 1992.

Both the 1992 Trans Am and the Firebird were introduced earlier this month, and are now available in convertible models, Asher said.

The idea for the Firebird convertible came about after General Motors had great success with the Pontiac Sunbird convertible.

"The convertibles will build on Firebird's fun-to-drive image," said John G. Middlebrook, Pontiac General Manager. "They also give us three entries in a growing market in which the Sunbird Convertible had a record setting year in 1990 and is continuing its strong sales in 1991."

With most car makers reporting decreasing sales, the convertible market has remained strong.

Between 1988 and 1989, the total number of convertibles produced nationwide went from 100,000 units to 132,000 units and last year the growth continued with 135,000 convertibles produced, according to information provided by the Pontiac Division, public relations department.

"Pontiac expects to expand that even more in the 1991 model year," Middlebrook said in a prepared statement.

"The Firebird and Trans Am soft top models will generate showroom excitement with 2,000 units scheduled during the remainder of the model year."

The convertible top is manually operated and is available in black or beige. The top folds down beneath a hide-away tonneau cover, and is not visible.

The price of the convertible version of the Fire Bird is $19,159 and the Trans Am is $22,980.

The newly styled Pontiac SSEi sport sedan is being called the flagship of the 1992 models, according to officials from General Motors.

The car was introduced Feb. 9 at the Chicago Auto Show. This year, the Bonneville will turn 35 years old and Pontiac dealers around the country are hoping it remains as popular as it has been in the past.

"We're providing only a small glimpse at the Chicago Auto Show of what is certain to be the premier full-size model of the 1992 model year for driving enthusiasts," Middlebrook said.

Middlebrook describes the SSEi as a futuristic concept car. The car is expected to be in showrooms across the country this fall.

General Motors officials are hoping the newly styled Bonneville SSEi is popular with both domestic and foreign car buyers.

TIGHT FIT

Enlarging small rooms may require professional touch

BY MARGO DEWEY

Having four walls, a big bay window and wall-to-wall carpeting may look like a lot of room, but when furniture is added to the picture, professional interior designers may be needed to enlarge those tight spaces.

It may take a fresh coat of light paint or new furniture to make the most of a room, according to Lorna Green, interior designer for Ethan Allen Galleries in Livonia.

"Wall units are very good for tight spaces," Green said. "People store a lot in wall units such as the television and stereo. Some units make an attractive addition with the glass doors and built-in book shelves."

Green recommends sizing down on furniture to make the room look bigger, which includes selecting love seats with small-scaled arms.

"Sometimes a sectional can work in a room, depending on the room," Green said. "Scaling down on everything is probably the best way to go, which includes using the open legs on chairs and sofas."

In terms of lighting, Green suggested matching the style of lighting with the type of room design.

"You almost always have an end table in the room, so there will be at least one table lamp," Green said. "Other types of lighting that would be good for rooms with little space include wall-hung lamps and track lighting."

When it comes down to choosing art for the walls, Green said to remember to scale down.

"Make sure the picture is in scale with whatever sofa is in the room," Green said. "Have a light background in the picture with a smaller print."

Wall colors for the room should remain in the pastel or warmer color family. Peach and beige are considered to be the warmer colors. Pale blue is described as a cool color, Green said.

"There are so many different ways to improve a small room," Green said.

Bob Overhiser, president of Corporate Designs in Ann Arbor, also believes in keeping the main color scheme of a tight space bright. Overhiser recommends using sheer drapes or light-colored Venetian blinds, which allow the light to enter the room more easily.

"If you can make a sectional work in a space," Overhiser said. "A sectional does maximize the area, but it's really up to the individual. Where a loveseat and two chairs may offer more space, a sectional offers more lounge area."

Most of the Corporate Design customers are requesting track lighting or recessed lighting, according to Overhiser.

"Interior decorating is really a personal thing," Overhiser said.

"We try to find out from a person what their likes are. I generally don't like trendy things because trendy kinds of things go out of style. Classic architecture is here today and in the future."

Overhiser recommends sticking to the basics and elements of interior designing that can be changed from time to time. In terms of plants for adding accent, Overhiser is in favor of the green color.

"It's a natural way to introduce green or other colors into a space," Overhiser said. "The biggest consideration we find with small spaces is storage."

Like Green, Overhiser believes the best remedy for a small room is to have a wall-storage unit.

"Storage units not only hold a lot, but they are functional and can be made out of plastic or wood," Overhiser said.

TOOLS OF THE TRADE

Choose tools with care;
use them the same way

Some people collect tools, others use them.

Collecting tools can become an expensive hobby. Learning how to use them, on the other hand, can become an avocation that saves lots of money on repairs around the house.

Insist on quality when shopping for tools, says Coopertools, a leading manufacturer.

Quality tools may cost more initially, but they will also last longer and work better. Bargain tools can turn out to be a poor investment and a safety hazard.

Tools should be chosen with care and used the same way.

A well-made hammer, for instance, should feel good in the hand and strike squarely.

For the average handyman, choose a 16-ounce curved claw hammer for most carpentry work and a 22-ounce ripping claw hammer for heavy-duty work.

The basic handsaw requirements include a crosscut, rip saw and handsaw with four blades. The crosscut saws across the grain, the rip saw with the grain. The hacksaw is for cutting metals and plastic.

Buy an 8-inch adjustable wrench to work on nuts and bolts. To work on hose and cable connections as well as rods and pipes, buy a 7-inch pair of tongue and groove pliers and a 6-inch pair of slipjoint pliers.

Screwdriver handles should fit your hand. Two flat-blade screwdrivers, a 4-inch and a 3-inch, and a 3-inch Phillips screwdriver should be enough.

BED OF ROSES

Winning the war of growing roses requires time, care

Kings loved them. One even demanded they be grown by all his subjects. But monarchs of centuries past are not alone in their overwhelming appreciation for roses. These sweet-scented beauties are widely considered the best known and most loved flower in the world.

Unfortunately, roses have a reputation for being difficult to grow. In actuality, roses are very self-sufficient plants. Add that to a hospitable growth environment of water, plenty of sun and soil and there's nothing to stop anyone from growing majestic roses.

Roses come in many different sizes and shapes. Categorized by class, they range from tiny miniatures to lengthy climbers. And within each class of roses, there are a variety of flowers, each with a name and patent of its own.

Miniatures are usually 10-15 inches tall with proportionately sized blooms. They are available in as wide a range of colors as their full-size counterparts. Popular varieties include "Cinderella" (white) and "Rise and Shine" (yellow).

Floribundas grow to about 3 feet. These hardy roses grow an abundance of small flowers in huge clusters on their short stems. Favorites in this group are "Little Darling" (salmon-pink), "Europeana" (red) and "Sea Pearl" (peach-pink).

Hybrid teas are the most popular class of roses because of their wide color range and strong fragrance. These roses range from 2-6 feet in height. Commonly grown hybrid teas are "Tiffany" (pink), "Peace" (yellow with pink tips) and "Chrysler Imperial" (red).

Grandifloras are large hardy shrubs which grow 8-10 feet tall. Their flowers resemble those of hybrid teas, but similar to floribundas, they grow in clusters. Popular varieties are "Queen Elizabeth" (pink) and "Love" (red).

Shrub roses are tough, low-maintenance plants. Most grow to be 6-10 feet tall. Although they are not usually available in nurseries, they can be ordered from catalogs.

Tree roses can be trained to grow on stems of about 3 1/2 feet, but they are not hardy. It is important to keep this variety protected from the extreme cold and heat. Frequently available tree roses are "Cherish" (pink), "Margo Koster" (salmon-pink) and "Tropicana" (orange-red).

Climbers can grow anywhere from 10-50 feet long, but they do not climb on their own. Unlike ivy, these roses do not have tendrils with which to attach themselves, so they must be supported by a fence, trellis or even a tree. Climbers can be trained to grow in almost any direction. Some common climbers are "Blaze" (red), "Golden Showers" (yellow) and "Handel" (pink).

Roses are sold either bare-root or in containers. Bare-root roses need to be planted as soon as possible. If they cannot be planted right away, wrap the roots in burlap and place in a plastic bag filled with damp Canadian Sphagnum Peat Moss. Leave the plastic bag slightly open for air so the roots do not mold, and place the plant in a cool, dark location. Plants can be kept this way for a maximum of one week. Before planting, soak the bare root in a bucket of muddy water. This allows the rose to absorb maximum moisture. It also coats the roots and protects them from drying out. Container roses can be planted at any time.

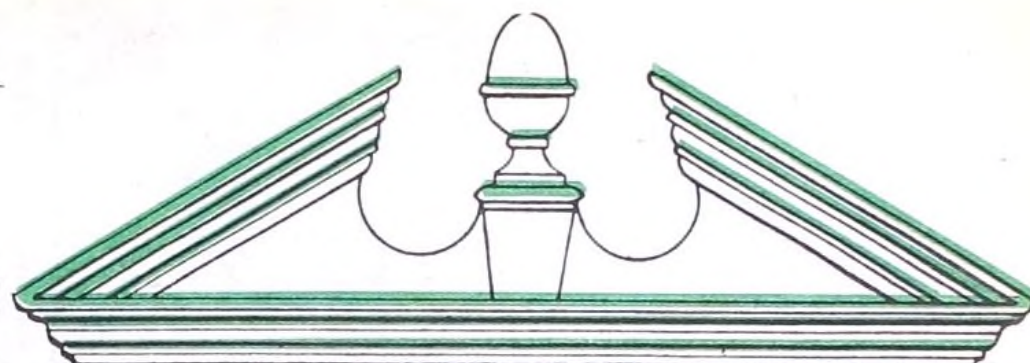

Roses perform best when they receive full sunshine. An ideal planting location is an area with eastern exposure. If your front door faces this direction, you might consider creating a flowering dooryard. Dooryards can be traced as far back as the earliest English settlers. Colorful roses adorning a wood fence and arched trellis above the gateway welcome in friends and neighbors.

Rose experts say that growing beautiful roses depends on healthy roots. And in return, healthy roots depend on good soil. Unfortunately, the majority of soils are not as well conditioned as gardeners would like. Most soils contain either too much clay, which roots have difficulty penetrating, or mostly sand, which allows water and nutrients to drain away too quickly to benefit the plants.

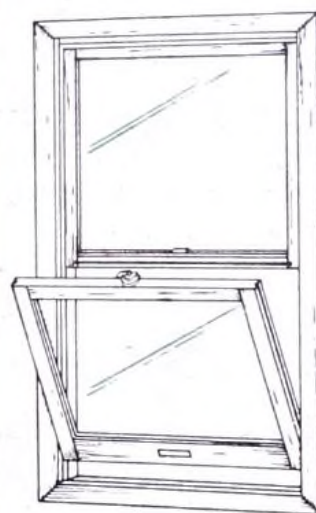

It is suggested the garden bed be dug up a month before planting. This will give the soil time to aerate. Dig the earth about 10 inches deep and 2 feet wide. Work 3 inches of peat moss into the top 10 inches of soil.

A month later, dig a hole in the center of the planting bed. Position the rose in the hole and slowly fill in the amended soil around the roots. Water thoroughly after planting. Build a mound of soil around the rose, covering the bud union (the swollen stem section at soil level), to hold moisture and provide protection from the weather.

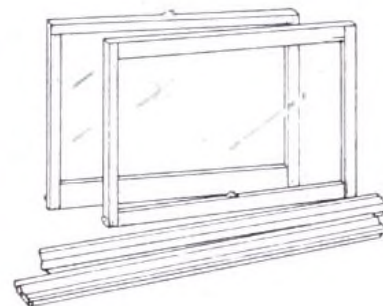

Roses are among the toughest of all plants. But they also give what they get. Give them the basic elements - sun, water, amended soil and a little fertilizer - and what you'll get are a bounty of beautiful blossoms from the "queen of flowers."

GRITTY BUSINESS

Choose the right sandpaper
for the individual job

Not all sandpapers are alike. Selecting from among the many varieties carried by hardware stores and home centers confuses even some seasoned woodworkers.

Sandpaper – also known as a coated abrasive – does not contain sand, some don't even contain paper.

The various abrasives are flint (the least expensive), garnet, aluminum oxide and silicon carbide.

According to the experts at 3M, sandpaper is graded according to the number of particle size or grit number.

This categorizes the particles according to a number of openings per inch in a screen through which they can pass. The most widely used system of grit numbers ranges from 12 to 600.

The following are the most commonly available grades:

- Extra course. 24-36 grit for removing thick paint or other heavy finish and heavy rust.

- Coarse. 40-60 grit for removing large amounts of wood or metal from unfinished stock.

- Medium. 80-100 grit for removing small amounts of wood and light rust. Also can be used to prepare walls and ceilings for painting. For drywall, though, try drywall sanding screen. It has an open mesh design that resists clogging.

- Fine. 120-180 grit for final sanding of bare wood and for removing slight imperfections.
- Extra fine. 220-360 grit for producing an exceptionally smooth surface on unfinished hardwood.

For the backing, paper is fine for general sanding by hand. However, if you are using a power sander, choose an abrasive with a cloth backing. It is stronger and more flexible. Or, use one of the adhesive-backed brands that stick to the entire working surface.

Protect your home

Here are tips and suggestions on how to reduce the chances of break-ins in your home:

- Try and avoid regular routines which make it obvious that you are away from home at specific times of the day or night. Sometimes this is unavoidable, but vary the routines of departure and arrival as much as possible.

- Never chat idly with strangers about leaving your home for a vacation. You never know who may be watching for an opportunity for a break-in.

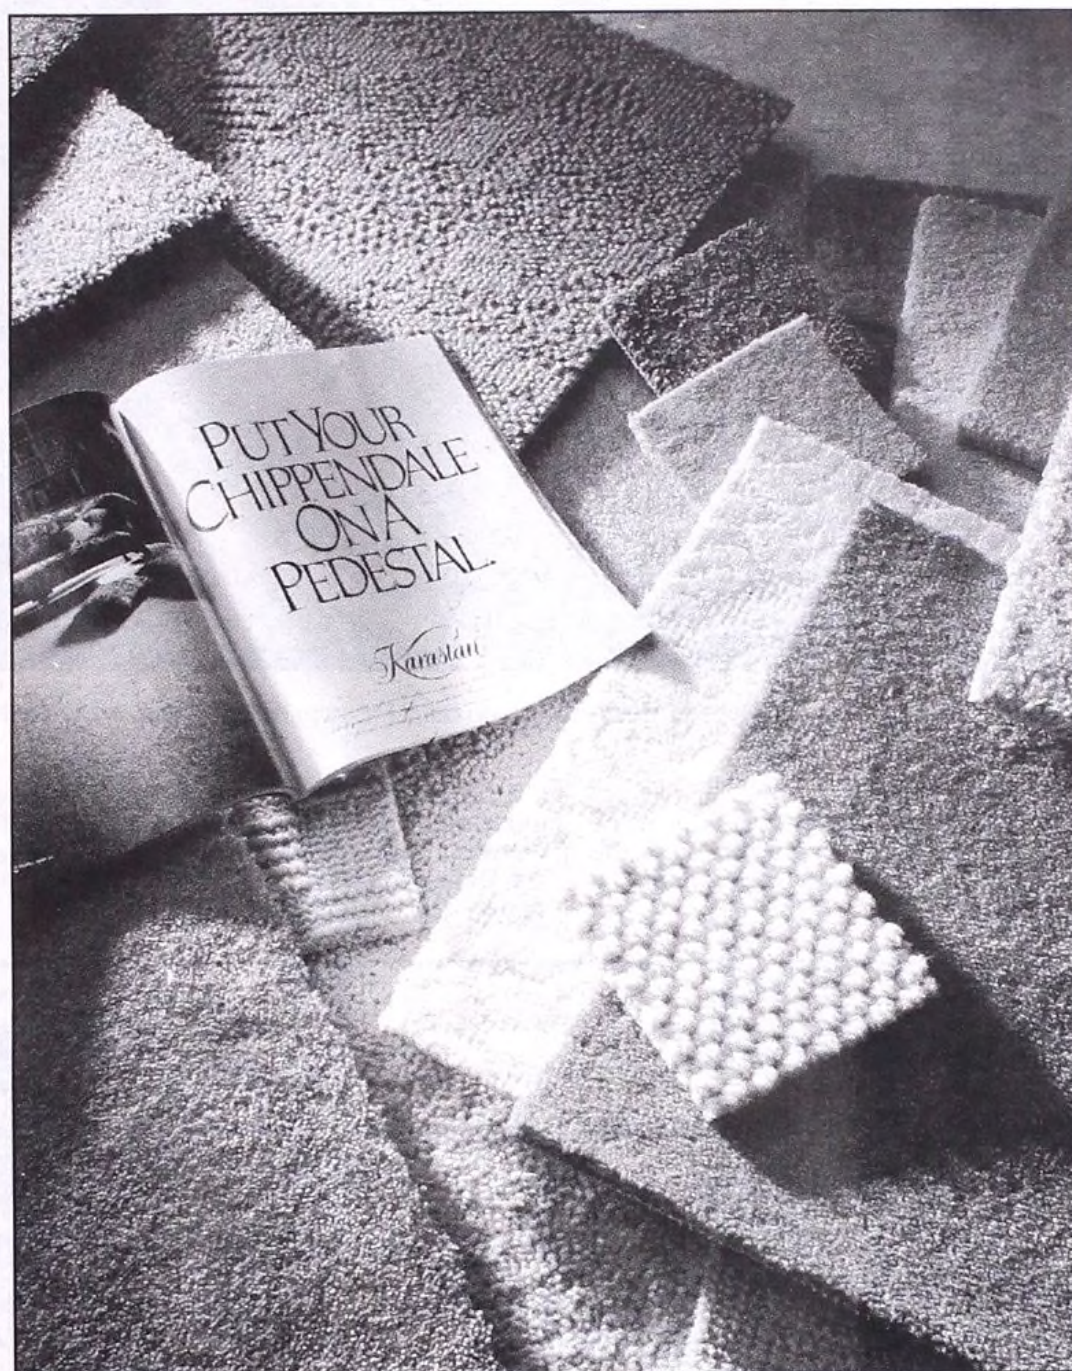

- When going on vacation, alert your local police. Stop the delivery of newspapers and mail to reduce telltale signs when you must be away from home for extended periods of time.

- Arrange for someone to mow your lawn in the summer or remove snow from your drive in the winter if it is necessary for the family to be away. This gives an appearance that someone is at home. Such precautions are well worth the cost of mowing and snowing.

- Mount flood or spot lights in your yard to deter crime. Such lights are inexpensive, relatively easy to mount and are highly effective in reducing crime.

Vinyl replacement windows save money

Nearly half the estimated 70-million single-family homes in the United States were built before 1960, according to a National Association of Home Builders survey of consumer remodeling activity.

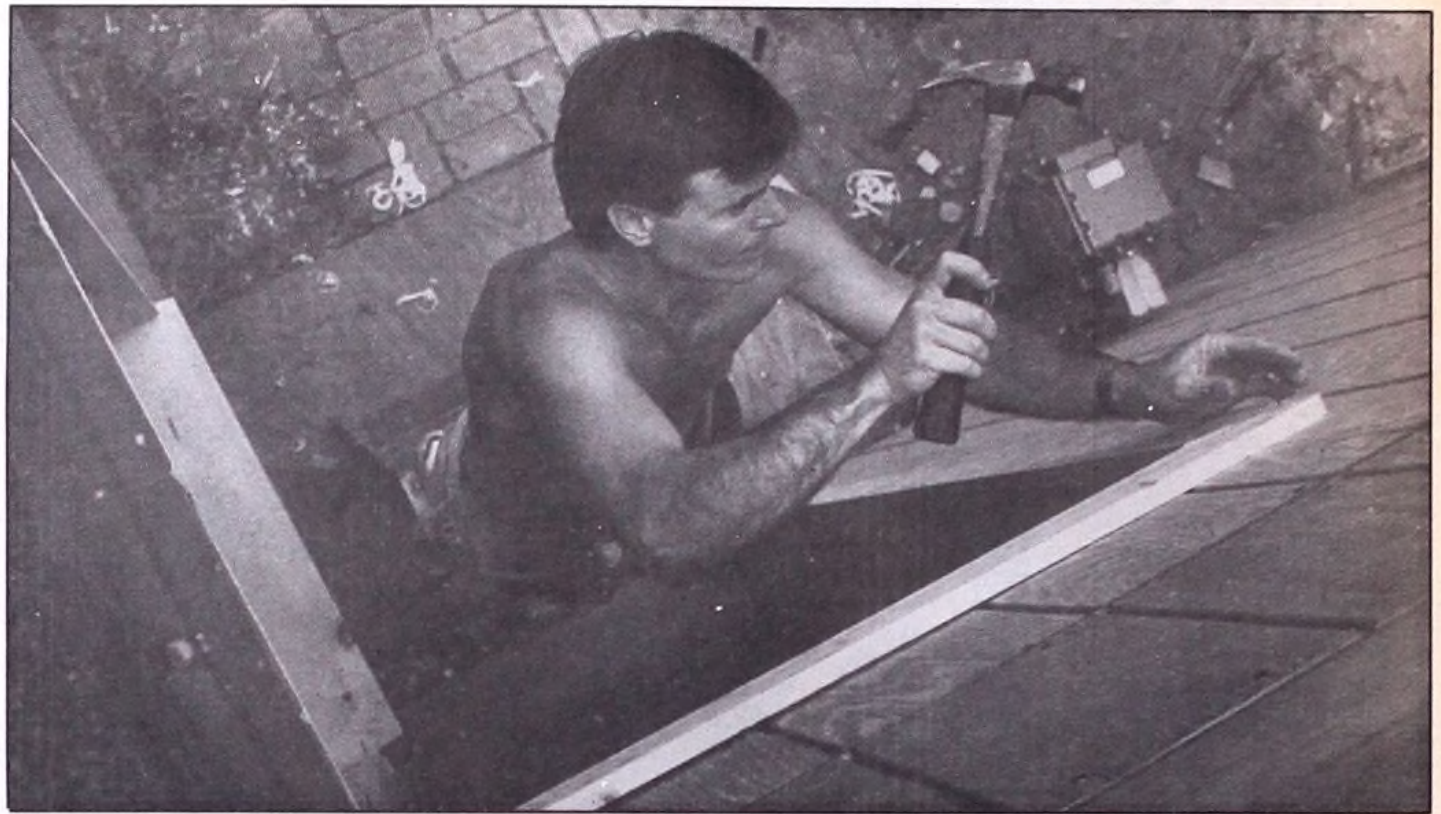

That means the more than 30-million single-family homes that are at least 30 years old are in need of remodeling.

American homeowners are expected to spend about $110 billion on remodeling in 1991, compared with $103 billion in 1990, according to Cahners Economics.

These figures illustrate why replacement windows remain near the top of the list of remodeling projects in terms of the money spent on them, an estimated $13 billion in 1990 and, in the number of installations, more than $28 billion in 1990.

But age isn't the only reason so many homeowners are replacing their windows. New and better windows that save energy and require little maintenance are others.

Vinyl windows, for example, offer nearly limitless design and styling options. Because they are custom made to the exact dimensions of the window openings, they assure a perfect fit and a weathertight seal.

A worker with the UAW General Motors Corp. Job Bank Program hammers in a wood molding near a window. ANP file photo

They also offer:

- Long-lasting beauty. Since the color goes all the way through the vinyl, scratches or scuffs don't show.

- Easy care. They never need painting or puttying so they are virtually maintenance free.

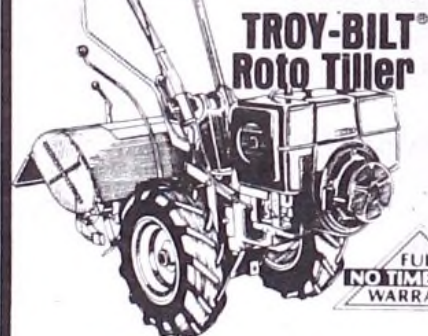

- Dependable service. Vinyl resists the ravages of temperature extremes, pollution, salt air and dirt and will not rot, pit, split or corrode.

WALL-TO-WALL

Pre-trimmed, pre-pasted make wallcoverings a simple task

A good way to start a project is to keep it simple. The same applies to wallcoverings, especially if it's the first time you've tried to install them.

For anyone considering the installation of wallcoverings as a do-it-yourself project, the Wallcovering Information Bureau suggested buying pre-trimmed and pre-pasted wallcoverings.

All they require is that you measure accurately, dip the wallcovering strips in water and apply them to the wall smoothly.

Begin in an area where you can get some experience without winding up frustrated.

Start in a hallway or wall where there are no windows, doors, cabinetry, corners or lots of angles to cause problems. Take your time.

Since most adhesives dry slowly, there is plenty of time to adjust or re-adjust the wallcovering strips.

When shopping, seek the retailer's advice on your choice of colors, patterns and the amount of rolls you'll need to complete the job. Bring measurements of the room and a sketch of the area you plan to cover with wallcoverings.

Wallcoverings and the tools necessary to install them are available at most paint and wallpaper stores, home centers and specialty stores.

Thermal efficiency. Vinyl is a non conductor of heat or cold, so condensation.

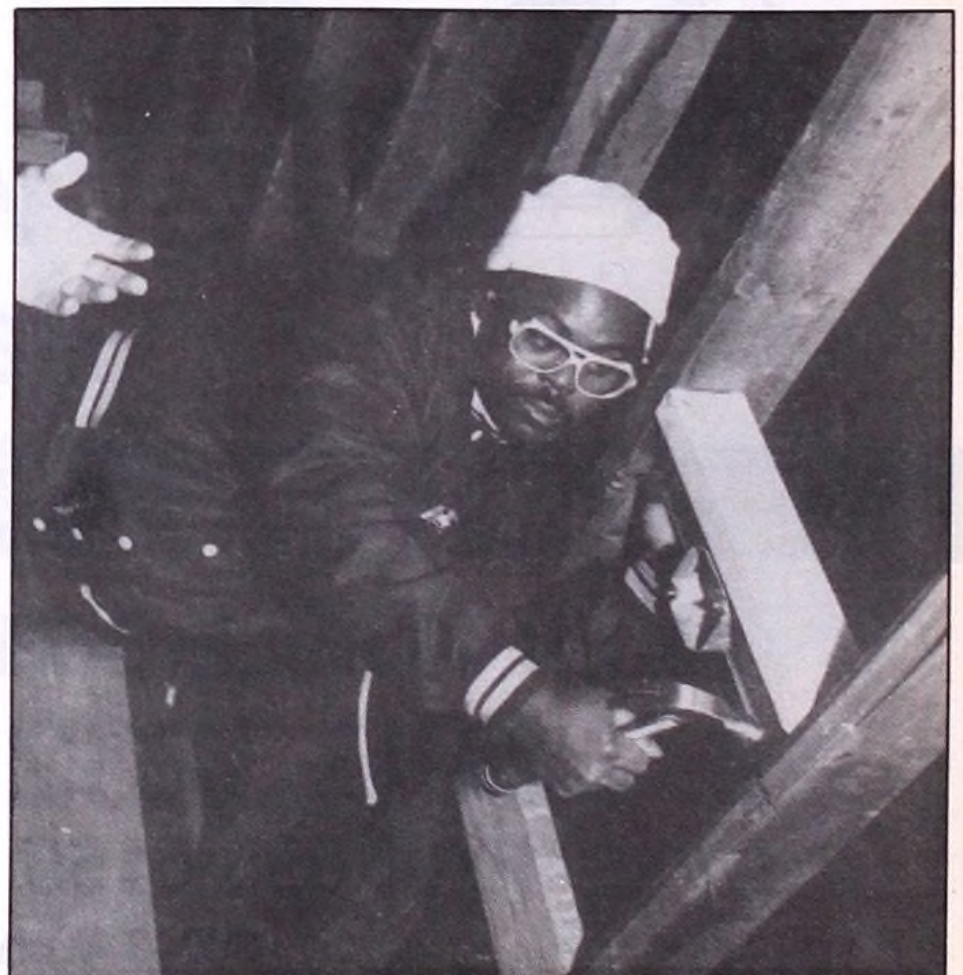

The optional low-emissivity glass makes double-pane insulating glass virtually the equivalent of triple glazing without the added weight. The low E coating on the glass helps keep heat inside in winter and outside in summer. High-performance glass also keeps out most of the ultraviolet rays, which could fade and deteriorate drapes, upholstery and carpeting.

Another advantage is the tilt-in convenience of cleaning. It's done safely and quickly from the inside without leaning, stretching or ladder climbing. When finished, a light push anchors the sash securely into the frame.

A fusions-welding process makes vinyl windows much stronger than ordinary windows, according to experts, because their fused corners are more resilient to seasonal changes and to long-term use.

Because welding eliminates any gaps or open seams, the windows are airtight, watertight and extremely energy efficient.

SIMPLE SOLUTIONS

When in doubt, use the service of your local hardware store

Area home repair experts say their best advice for do-it-yourselfers is to use services of their local hardware store.

"There's a lot of free advice available in this industry," said Mitch Robertson, owner of D and D Hardware in Wayne. "If you don't feel comfortable handling a particular job, give your local hardware store a call. Then make the decision whether you can still do the job or whether you need to hire a professional."

For the average do-it-yourselfer, projects such as wallcovering, floorcovering, painting, lawn care and plumbing can typically be handled with little difficulty, Robertson said.

Other projects, such as electrical and cabinet refacing, should be tackled by a professional, he said.

"If you try a plumbing project and get a leak, then you go get the mop. If you overload a circuit, you can get electrocuted or burn down the house," Robertson said.

"Electrical projects are dangerous, especially if you don't know what you are doing."

In the spring months, Robertson recommends homeowners finish inside home repair projects and leave major outdoor projects until the warmer summer.

"The magic number is the 50-degree mark," he said. "You don't want to paint or do cement work when the temperature is below 50."

Outdoor projects that can be tackled now include cleaning gutters, fixing loose cement and all inside home repairs.

"Until the lawn dries off, stay off it," Robertson said. "You can do a lot of root damage by trampling your lawn before it dries completely."

John Dalton, manager of Tommy's Hardware in Plymouth Township, said seeding, fertilizing and cleaning the lawn are prime concerns during the spring months. He recommended spreading a pre-emergence crab grass killer before the grass begins to grow.

At Nankin Hardware in Westland, co-owner Jim Amo said he has plenty of suggestions for do-it-yourselfers.

"But it all depends on the specific project," he said. "The best thing I can say is to see your local full-service hardware store. If you have a problem or don't understand something, don't hesitate to call or come in to the store."
